Syllabus of Shastri Generic Elective (GE)

Shastri I- Fifth Semester GE 5- Kannada Literature Credit- 4(60+40=100)

INTRODUCTION: It is the unit that human community evolved after the family. Although it appears as a system of many professions, classes and genders, in reality nature, animals, birds, government, social structure, religious system all these form a society. The social system insists that human beings should have social life and personality just as they have individual life and personality. Since man is fundamentally a social being, he cannot live in denial of society. A social man makes his living on the earth. Earth is the origin of human beings. Mother Earth is not only a place of worship. It is a fact of our being. Without the earth, without the living resources of the earth, there can be no human existence. All these inside and outside the earth are our privilege and responsibility. Mental balance is required for leading a positive life. As things like enjoying the present life, making it meaningful, while respecting life is also a way for human beings to respect themselves. We are ultimately responsible for shaping the gifted life as we want it to be. It is different to live life mechanically and ritualistically, it is different to live enjoying every moment of life, one should turn to literature to know that. This unit has been formed with the aim of providing students with the connection and uniqueness of this type of reading with other disciplines of literature in order to propose various dimensions of literature and social culture and civilization. Some of the texts have been chosen in the context of contemporary concerns, as the texts will be integrated if they include all these elements. This kind of reading enables us to shape our lives. Thematic texts like 'Modernity', 'Bhoomi', 'Society', 'Darshan' in all the four units of this fifth semester provide targeted outcomes in the students.
